

Breathing Heavily

Fire & Flesh

I've spent these years chasing after horizons like nothing else was left
I've done soul searching on the sidelines
Making sense of this
Smoke and mirrors for friends of mine
Many years I've walked this line
Waiting for the moment that defines my life I'm breathing heavily...
Holding on to the melody of those years that have passed us by like the very last train out of town....
Where did time go when it slipped away?
Where did time go when we looked away?
Take me back to yesterday
When it all made perfect sense Simple times and simple's ways
Watching sunsets as they fade
I remember like it was yesterday
We had the world at our hands
The world at our hands....
We swore time would never hold us down
Over drunken promises we took that vow
To relinquish what was left
And just chase the wind....I know these clocks aren't turning back anymore, anymore...
Yea I know these clocks aren't turning back anymore, anymore...
But with you by my side, we're frozen in time
Bound by this structure imbedded in our minds
Take me back to yesterday
Take me back to yesterday
Where did time go when it slipped away?
Where did time go when we looked away?
Take me back to yesterday
When it all made perfect sense
