Sick Of It All

Alchema

All you've taken, all forsaken, where you gonna go?
No one told you how it would be
Half to scale, to ache for shelter, stare into the sun
You can look but you won't seeWhere are you gonna go?
The rise before the fall
When you're just sick of it all
When you're just sick of it allFly so high you're going down when one's got broken wings
No one told you how it would be
The power between the highs and lows, drowned yourself again
It's where you find that you're freeWhere are you gonna go?
When nothing's left that you know
The rise before the fall
When you're just sick of it all
When you're just sick of it all
When you're just sick of it allWhere are you gonna go?
When nothing is left that you know
The rise before the fall
When you're just sick of it all
When you're just sick of it all
When you're just sick of it all
