

Fallin' Away

Howard Jones

The manners of the heart we watched them grow
Did we write everlasting love in the Hollywood snow?
The ribbons and the bows wrapped us with gold
Such pressure heaven knows as the fairy tale folds Who heals the broken ones, when love has gone? You're not the only ones, in an older time when the world was small
When good men were standing, reaching out for mother love
When the ties of blood would cheer the faintest heart
Never thought I'd see, you fallin' away from me Beneath the darker sky, the stars are such a mess
Can you forward my goodbyes to some new address
Who heals the broken ones when love has gone You're not the only ones in an older time when the world was
small
When good men were standing, reaching out for mother love
When the ties of blood would cheer the faintest heart
Never thought I'd see, you fallin' away from me You can't turn back time
We're stranded here
Leave the future behind You're not the only ones in an older time when the world was small
When good men were standing, reaching out for mother love
When the ties of blood would cheer the faintest heart
Never thought I'd see, you fallin' away from me

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>