A Thousand Million Reasons

Colin Hay

When the sun comes up over Paris
It's like any other day
Except that you're in Paris
What more need I say
I climbed the Eiffel Tower
So I could touch the sky
I took almost an hour
And I can sure see whyAnd you give me a thousand million reasons
Why we're not alone
And you give me a thousand million seasons
Where life goes on and on and on and onI woke up here in heaven
Floating round the sun
I count down from eleven
All the way to oneAnd you give me a thousand million reasons
Why we're not alone
And you give me a thousand million seasons
Where life goes on and onAnd in this world truth be told
We're the lucky ones
And if we find someone to love
Until we fade away into the rise and fall
Of each and every night and day
Together we'll breathe into the windAnd you give me a thousand million reasons
Why we're not alone
And you give me a thousand million seasons
Where life goes on and on and on and onAnd you give me a thousand million reasons
Why we're not alone
And you give me a thousand million seasons
Where life goes on and on and on and on
And on and on and on and on...
