

All Dragged Up

Honeyblood

teething pains are meant to fade when incisors pierce through.
when mother nature planned for age, she must've forgot about you.
growing old gracefully is an art-form, you see.
better to let it be, then hang on despartely.
why won't you grow?
why won't you grow up?
do we have to drag you up?
why won't just, oh why won't you just grow up?
tantrums are a minor fling.
they'll cease when you begin to take wise words implored.
it's all been done before.
growing old gracefully is an art-form, you see.
letting youth have it's peace
is frightfully deathly.
why won't you grow up?
why won't you grow up?
do we have to drag you up?
why won't just, oh why won't you just grow up?
why won't you grow up?
why won't you grow up?
do we have to drag you up?
why won't just, oh why won't you just grow up?
why won't you grow up?
why won't you grow up?
do we have to drag you up?
why won't just, oh why won't you just grow up?
why won't you grow up?
why won't you grow up?
do we have to drag you up?
why won't you just cause everyone must grow u

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>