Eclipse

Swayt

So has it come to the point now?
To trade off will for a destined way
In the absence of a guiding purpose the heart slips away.
So make of it what you want to
To settle in for darker days or to preserve in our own calling and carve our own way
Do you let the sky speak to you, let it speak through you. Embrace the freedom of your self pursuit.
The dark calls with a comfort confliction
Is it too late for a sign to point me right.
As the shadow surrounds me here in this forest ,
The eclipse covers the sky and the world as I know it. You'd think the silence'd clear my head but there's a ringing and I haven't found an ounce of solace in this desolate forest.
A radiance where there should be nothing
The calm in the snow
Everything flows blue and my mind wanders to know. Are we strung up to a fate as a non believer.
Reclaim sobriety the Suns rays are part of me the freedom felt don't let them in.
Embrace your destiny the forest is your history a future told in quiet peace
Under the eclipse you'll see this life will flow so worry free, allow the peace just resonate with three Clear out your mind for me refuse all their trickery I must surely be a vessel in myself.
Find your comfort your peace and your solitude
Without heading to the will of fate.
I weaved life into every inch of you soul
The threads of life will not be undone

Lyrics Submitted by Kyle Utterbeck

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/