

Sea of Faces (Low Key Performance Track)

Kutless

I see the city lights all around me
Everyone's obscure
Ten million people each with their problems
Why should anyone care? And in your eyes I can see I am not just a man, vastly lost in this world
Lost in a sea of faces
Your body's the bread, your blood is the wine
Because you traded your life for mine Sometimes my life, it feels so trivial
Immersed in the greatness of space
Yet somehow you still find the time for me
It's then you show me your love And in your eyes I can see
And in your arms I will be, yeah I am not just a man, vastly lost in this world
Lost in a sea of faces
Your body's the bread, your blood is the wine
Because you traded your life for mine If only my one heart
Was all you'd gain from all it cost
Well I know you would have still been a man
With a reason to willingly offer your life I am not just a man, vastly lost in this world
Lost in a sea of faces
Your body's the bread, your blood is the wine
Because you traded your life for mine I am not just a man, vastly lost in this world
Lost in a sea of faces
Your body's the bread, your blood is the wine
Because you traded your life for mine
Just one in a million faces
