

Come Home

Eyes Set to Kill

We say its okay, to leave it alone
But I want you to notice this case isn't closed Doors are open, the lights are left on
And there's never a night I sleep
With the dreams that I'd have if you never decided, Decided to leave There's never an ounce that I breathe without thinking about who I could have been with you.
There's never an ounce that I breathe without thinking about who I could have been if you didn't leave. The phones been patient to hear your call
But you never touch the dial
You never touch the dial
Now I know
There's someone I wish walked through these halls
But you'll never take the chance to come home
So come home We say we can learn from this
But I just don't know what to do without you anymore
Your absence is taking its toll on me
What I should believe
I just cant believe There's never an ounce that I breathe without thinking about who I could have been with you.
There's never an ounce that I breathe without thinking about who I could have been if you didn't leave. The phones been patient to hear your call
But you never touch the dial
You never touch the dial
And now I know
There's someone I wish walked through these halls
But you'll never take the chance to come home
So come home You say it isn't my fault so I steer away
I put off the pain for another day
You think you wouldn't be tough?
8 years were never enough
I'll wait for you
If you never change I will be okay
But I'll still stay up for you
Just in case you make the time for the right move. The phones been patient to hear your call
But you never touch the dial
You never touch the dial
Now I know
There's someone I wish walked through these halls
But you'll never take the chance to come home
So come home There's someone I wish walked through these halls

But you never touch the dial
You never touch the dial
And now I know
The phone's been patient to hear your call
But you'll never take the chance to come home
But you'll never take the chance to come home Just come home
