Harder They Fall
A challenge I can't ignore My chance for a fight, To have my moment in the glory This is the price I must pay everyday A day in my life. You ask what gives me the right to judge you I'll tear you limb from limb Break you piece by piece Put you in a state Where it takes all you got to breathe Thrill to your suffering As you cry out in agony Nothing could please me more I am your maker I am everything that you know Have you at my mercy And I am going to kill you slow The harder they come... The harder they fall
