Reset

June Divided

I try, but cannot race it
Like ship stuck in the sky, it's always there
Today, still hold stories
So when it's over, it's never going

And I find the patterns in stars in the night sky
Die for the habits that we just can't break
It's always easier when we can forget
So I start over, but
I can reset

I can reset

We change, moving circles
And then we came across to keep away
We say, it's the last time
But stories in the sky will never lie

And I find the patterns in stars in the night sky
Die for the habits that we just can't break
It's always easier when we can forget
So I start over, but
I can reset

I can reset
