The Hurt Inside

Gary Moore

You wrestle with your conscience To free your better self But did you think for one moment You could be someone elseBetween a rock and a hard place Is where you seem to be You've been caught in a trap Between the devil and the deep blue seaAll those nights so lonely All the tears that you cry You can't hide from the hurt inside The hurt insideYou're in a situation Pray this time it will pass But it feels like you're walkin' Over miles and miles of broken glassPainted into a corner Where the sun never shines Somebody's turned on the spotlight You forgot to learn your linesIn the place you once called your heart There's a wound that's open wide You can't hide from the hurt inside The hurt insideWhen you're thinking 'bout the hard times Everyone's been through But it won't make no difference Seeing things the way you doIn this blue condition You must search for the light Don't believe them when they tell you You can't hold back the nightBetween a rock and a hard place Is where you'll always be Caught in a trap Between the devil and the deep blue seaSo many words unspoken So many times you never tried You can't hide from the hurt inside The hurt insideNo, you can't hide from the hurt inside The hurt inside There's one thing you can't hide It's the hurt inside The hurt inside
