

Ah, Christine

Andrew Lloyd Webber

Ah, Christine, my Christine
What a triumph you gave me tonight
My Christine
All the dark silent years now set right
Ah, Christine The song was beautiful
It sounded beautiful
Every note, every word And it felt beautiful
And I felt beautiful
Lost in the music once more
Feeling it rise up and soar
Alive once again My dearest wife
Little Lotte, I beg you, forgive me
Raoul, no
Little Lotte
Ah, what fools we once were Long ago in our youth
In Paris at the opera
Romantic idiot
Those two people are gone Now I must go
Our choices are made
The opera is done
The last notes have been played May your angel of music
Watch over you now
And give you what I wish
I gave you somehow Yours, in regret
Raoul

Songwriters

Andrew Lloyd Webber; Glenn Evan Slater Published by

THE REALLY USEFUL GROUP LTD Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>