'Giants'

Josh Osho

Ordinary days but these ain't ordinary times
I lost and making waves, I know it's something on our minds
We need something so beautiful
When you feel you're losing your ground
So hard to keep you straight up tall
'Cause no one wants to fall, fallWe all want to be giants
But our heads are too heavy from the mess that we're in
We all want to have patience
And we want to ride out, getting tired of waitingWe all want to make progress
And we're suffering, running in circles again
The only reason that I stand to make it through
Is that I'm twice the man I am when I'm with youTrying to make a change, going down a different avenue
If anytime I stop, at least I know where I am heading to
So glad you joined the revolution 'cause I've been missing you
Till we all know where this story goes
We're climbing up these walls, wallsWe all want to be giants
But our heads are too heavy from the mess that we're in
We all want to have patience
And we want to ride out, getting tired of waitingWe all want to make progress
And we're suffering, running in circles again
The only reason that I stand to make it through
Is that I'm twice the man I am when I'm with youMoney link to burn, we can do whatever
Ain't you know that I'm a boss
Check my Kelsey Grammar, stank attitude
But she smiling when we kiss
But I love my baby, mama 'cause she do not existDo not mess with Bino, eager with ego
Haters miss vigo like Chaktin with free throws
Your time un pequito, no habla un grinco
Do not knock on vido unless necessitoI'm chilling at the Waldorf, eating on some grapefruit
When everybody likes you everybody hates you
That's just the territory I got to be honest
It's very boring without a hater there to make a storyThey want to tell you what's in your heart
Don't start, getting salieri on my Mozart
I'ma play some Go-Kart with my little brother
'Cause life is only living when you're living for each otherWe all want to be giants
But our heads are too heavy from the mess that we're in
We all want to have patience
And we want to ride out, getting tired of waitingWe all want to make progress
And we're suffering, running in circles again

The only reason that I stand to make it through
Is that I'm twice the man I am when I'm with you
