

Is This Thing On?

Less Than Jake

When all the things that you've been thinking I've been on that ledge countless times has you so confused and so unglued your head is spinning you've on your own can't make it through this world all alone well we've all felt the same inside and I know what that feels like they've turned to strangers no one hears even though you've talked all night when all your friends don't have the answers is this thing on at all? we've all seen the different sides and you're so convinced that inch by inch and I know what you feel like than that skyline that goes on and on forever on and on? can we really measure if we're any better
