Take Me Home

Donna Lewis

Here, I'm standing strong
I've made my choice at last forever
Here, where I belong
With you my love, my friend, no otherLost inside of you
I'm breathless, floating throughTake me home
We can run with the rainstorms
We can sit and stare at the world
Confess our secrets to mother earthAnd home, down the new road of our life
Through the window of snow fields and happiness
A new you, a new me
Take me homeNow I understand
The love we give away
We keep foreverNow with tears of joy
I'm soaring free
With you, togetherLost inside of you
I'm breathless, floating throughTake me home
We can run with the rainstorms
We can sit and stare at the world
Confess our secrets to mother earthAnd home, down the new road of our life
Through the window of snow fields and happiness
A new you, a new me
Take me homeCome take my hand
My heart, my soul
Come to a place
Loved long agoCome take my hand
My heart, my soul
Come to a place
Loved long agoTake me home
We can run with the rainstorms
We can sit and stare at the world
Confess our secrets to mother earthAnd home, to the lakes of our childhood
We can leave the meanness behind
Under the sunset skiesAnd home, to the land of our loved ones
To a place where there's a warm hand to hold
A wilderness unknownAnd home, down the new road of our life
Through the window of snow fields and happiness
A new you, a new me
Take me home, yeah
Take me home, yeahCome take my hand

My heart, my soul
Come to a place
Loved long agoCome take my hand
My heart, my soul
Come to a place
Loved long agoCome take my hand
My heart, my soul
Come to a place
Loved long agoCome take my hand
My heart, my soul
Come to a place
Loved long ago
Come with me
