

Winning Streak

Glen Hansard

Through summers long and winters cold
May you always have someone good to hold
And may good fortune wait on every bend
And may your winning streak
May it never end
So, roll the dice, boy, 'cause my money's on you
Take my advice now and put your money down too
Because there's something in the eye you can't pretend
And may your winning streak
May it never end
And may the sign
Of the Southern Cross
Be some comfort to you when you're lost
And may the devil's evil eye
Pass you by
Well, it's not for glory, I tell you true
That I do these things I do for you
But for a promise I made now I must defend
And may your winning streak
May it never end
And may the sign of the cross
Be some comfort when you're lost,
Help you when you're all broke down,
May the spirit of good brethren
Turn you around
And may the devil's evil eye
Pass you right by
Don't you look back my friend
And may the sisters of good charity
Take you in
Through summers long and winters cold
May you always have someone good to hold
And may good fortune wait on every bend
And may your winning streak
May it never end
May your winning streak
May it never end
