Traveling Heart

Alexa Rose

Darling you're my rolling stone
You never leave wise and you never come home
When that rusty sky gets dark
You can't trust a traveling heart
Oh you can't trust a traveling heart

Darling I'm you're never do well
With people like us you never can tell
What you wanna hear you are
You can't trust a traveling heart
You can't trust a traveling heart

When the sun goes down
You wont be hanging around this town
I'm you're confidential confidant
You'll never find out what I want to
Why I was running
Why I was running

Darling can you take me back
I'm dreaming my days I'm blowing my stack
I can't shake the dust but it falls back hard
Aching to trust my traveling heart
Aching to trust my traveling heart

'Cause When the sun goes down
I wont be hanging around this town
I'm you're confidential confidant
You'll never find out what I want to
Why I was running
Why I was running

You say you're traveling on
You're just passing through
But you can only go so far before you find somebody who knows you
You can only go so far before you find somebody who knows you

Darling I'm you're sorrow song
And you are the porch light I left on
You can only see it in the dark

So turn it off quick it's losing its spark
Turn it off it's losing its spark

And when the sun goes down
I wont be hanging around this town
I am no confidential confidant
You'll never find out what I want to
Why I was running
Why I was running

Because you're just traveling on
you're just passing through
But you can only go so far before you find somebody who knows you
you can only go so far before you find somebody who knows you
you can only go so far before you find somebody who knows you
you can only go so far before you find somebody who knows you
Somebody who knows you
Somebody who knows you
You can only go so far before you find somebody who knows you
