

Fleeting

Deine Lakaien

She told me no she cannot stay her friend is close by no more delay maybe we'll meet some other day her voice had cancelled gravitation I tried to stutter invitation on both sides of a garden fence in May I knew the day will come I knew the day will come
Fleeting isolation deadend road
Her eyes half open please don't go there's something more to do you know and I fell back into her arms she shook my view of elevation and then she talked about relation God knows what made me feel alarmed this moment I knew the day will come
I knew the day will come
Fleeting isolation deadend road
Her nervous smile please don't wait somewhere someone she'll be late my only life my only love she moved back as I touched her knee she talked about independency I faced the facts no use to strive for more than this I knew the day will come
I knew the day will come
Fleeting isolation deadend road
