So Moved On

O.A.R.

Well I woke today, felt another way
Everything was gonna be fine
When my head rose up and my legs came too
Quarter past nine was the timeWell I used to lose floating memories
Found myself wishing I'd remember old times
But I woke today, felt another way
Felt free in the sky to flyWhen I stepped out the door, didn't know what for
I saw my lady walking along
Well I could have cried out what I wanted to say
But I am sick of all this terrible charmWell I used to be into apologies
A regular to shame I was shy
But I woke today, felt another way
I felt free in the sky to flyWell I'm through the gate
Got to my house about a quarter to eight
And I made a drink
Got about an hour to relax and just think
I'm just boredNothing's ever gonna be the same anymore
And with my drink in hand I got up to stand
And I was off to a regular day
With my drink in hand I got up to stand
And I was off to a regular dayWell the morning dragged on, I was walking along
Missing pieces fell to the ground
I said apparently, I could not see
But I saw everything going downSo I packed my bags and I was on my way
I feel a little different in a different way
But like I said when I got out of bed
I was off to a regular dayI could not hide, I wore my pride
It felt good to be on the run
The air quality was something new to me
And I got along fine with the sunAnd when I rest my head and I lay down to bed
I put the pieces down with the blame
And if all goes well, at the morning bell
I'll be feeling free just the sameWell I'm through the gate
Got to my house about a quarter to eight
And I made a drink
Gotta 'bout an hour to relax and just think
Say that I'm just boredNothing's ever gonna be the same anymore.
And with my drink in hand I got up to stand
And I was off to a regular day

With my drink in hand I got up to stand
And I was off to a regular day
With my drink in hand I got up to stand
And I was off to a regular day
With my drink in hand I got up to stand
And I was off to a regular day
