That Is Why

Jellyfish

Though it's time to admit it's true
I've come to depend on you
You and your angelic shout
Loud enough for twoAnd that is why
I'll confide in you the truth this time
That is why
I just can't go on and live this lieYesterday all was right as rain
But now the forecast's not
It's partly cloudy with trouser stains
And his copy of inquiring mindsBut that never meant that much to her
She chose to keep her nose too clean
She'd rather keep it pointed anyway
In the spine of a magazineAnd that is why
I'll confide in you the truth this time
That is why
I just can't go on and live this lieWhen you say I trust in you
I promise you the truth
And when you say I bet you won't
You know I will and it'll be better in the endSo when you think you've got it figured out
Then you know you don't Like all the rest you'd like to sit and pout
But ofcourse you won'tAnd that is why
I'll confide in you the truth this time
That is why
I just can't go on and live this lieThat is why
That is why
That is why
That is why
