

Anywhere I'm Away from You

Justin Currie

When I'm away from home I do as the locals do
But baby, now I'm in Rome and I can't remember you
Did you used to cut me down, did you used to bury me?
Praise God for the errors of my memory
Whatever I'm coming to
I ain't running home
'Cause home is anywhere,
Anywhere I'm away from you

Out on the road you find invisibility
And the beauty of an empty mind is its tranquility
And if the past comes up and dogs my day
I can take it on a little trip and lose it in the empty space
Whatever I'm coming to
I ain't running home
'Cause home is anywhere,
Anywhere I'm away from you

So, baby if you want me back you don't have to do a thing
Just stare at the wall as you always do hating everything
And I'll come flooding back and you can treasure me
With your heart like rock and your mind so black butcher my memory
Whatever I'm coming to
I ain't running home
'Cause home is anywhere,
Anywhere I'm away from you
