I Just Started Being Bad

Sarah Connor

For all your life you run around
Just try to catch the golden crown
The glittering and all the shimmering
Conquered your heart, it's all or nothingDon't make a fool out of yourself
There must be more to life than just to please yourself
Your fancy clothes, don't free your mind
Try to find the truth behind
Try to find the truth behind[Tell me
Can't you get it in your head
Better stop your stress instead
And baby don't forget
I Just started being badCall me naughty, call me nice
I'm your sugar, I'm your spice
Forget the life you had
I just started being bad]And if you think you've got it made
All beautiful, you're feeling safe
So powerless, baby is what you are
Look to heaven, there's a new starI've come around to make you cry
To make you see yourself, you better wait a while
Then suddenly you just free your mind
Now you find the truth behind
Now you find the truth behindchorusWhen everything I did was wrong
I told myself it won't be long
Until the day that I don't care what other people say
And now I feel my time has come
I'm gonna be your number one
I started being bad, oh don't you know?I've come around to make you smile
To make you feel you're still alive
I promise you that you can free your mind
Try to find the truth behind
Try to find the truth behindchorusKeep on movin' to the top
Once we're groovin' it won't stop
So baby don't forget
You just started being badCall me naughty, call me nice
I'm your sugar, I'm your spice
Forget the life you had
We just started being bad

Lyrics provided by