

Somebody I used to know mix

Andre Roman

She arrive and her and I collide with perfect time. Instantly we vibe, meant to be, entities intertwined. flyless, with the essence of a goddess, and that's me being modest. When I see her I'm astonished Honestly, have to acknowledge. Since we parted this process has been the hardest and regardless, its the past. Forgetting the nights we used to have. Feeling ripped in half can barely sleep, memories got me imprisoned, barely surviving the loneliness forgetting that she existed feeling locked inside this whats depletes us and the pain increases chewing me up spitting me out in pieces. you evil genius got what you deserved when you got kicked out to the curb couldn't believe the things I heard! sometimes we all get burned! I see that you immature and I'm something you couldn't play with. Lose my way within this maze and amazed that it never changes and rages, kind words are razors. Not phased by your different phases, fooled by your different faces, forgotten we're perfect strangers.

Chorus

V2: You know its complicated at the time I was isolated. All I had to do was make a call I'm sorry I never made it, and nowÂ that I make the effort already know that its too late. It's safe to say I hate the way I let it all slip and fade away. Hope you hear the words I'm saying and I'll never forget the day when you were high and dry and reached for help and me? I left you hanging again my sight was blinded and the distance between us widened. A matter of time for you with doom with the friendship I provided. Stuck suffering consequences of my own decisions. Can't live with the way it ended and the pain that I inflicted. said "you can't predict this, can't forget this, can't forgive this scandalousness. Let's end this resistance. I'm guilty and defenseless!" and that's the past the day you past was the day my world was silent and these clouds are grey surrounding me try to find the silver lining and my mind just can't accept the mistakes that I can't correct and now there's nothing left that I must accept, a truth that I'm forced to ingest!

Chorus

V3: Through the changing places, different faces, and the different phases, when friends turn into strangers separated on different pages and the pieces of the past that hold me back I let go and laugh through weather shine or rain I cherish what still remains.

Through the changing places, different faces, and the different phases, when friends turn into strangers separated on different pages and the pieces of the past that hold me back I let go and laugh through weather shine or rain I cherish what still remains

Chorus

Lyrics Submitted by James Crothers

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>