

Friday's Exuberant Smile

Echo Orbiter

Once in the night they shouldâ€™ve shared the light by the odyssey flight
Stole the rights of the night from the clouds of white

Out of the air a certain voice from somewhere was drowning out the music
With words about a boy who misplaced his cares

Down to earth now, open skies above us, shower down the sunshine

Lying down in a field among pine trees
The UFO descended down to check my pulse

Chuckie told Mae he didnâ€™t wanna stay but his words went unheard
So he swallowed the remains of his long strange day

She spun around to face the face on the ground
Her permanent frown appeared upside down to the face on the ground

Down to earth now, open skies above us, shower down the good times

Lying down in a field among pine trees
The UFO descended down to check his pulse
When she was there breathing in the midnight air
The UFO took flight without saying goodnight
