

Capitalism Stole My Virginity

The (International) Noise Conspiracy

Nowhere's untouched by the shame
Who said we could get by with our childhood games?
Days of innocence are all long gone
Avoid the shock, honey, and try to live on
Woke up all paralyzed
All dreams corrupted in front of our eyes
'Cause on every forehead of every little whore
There's a sign that says, 'Baby don't come back no more'
Distasteful, ugly and cheap
That is how you make me feel, I said
Capitalism stole my virginity
Capitalism stole, capitalism stole
Capitalism stole my virginity
Robbed out of our bleeding hearts
Smashed our illusions, tore them all apart
Now we're unsentimental, unafraid
To destroy this culture that we hate
Sort of tired of being nothing
When, when we should be everything
On every forehead of every little whore
There's a sign that says, 'Baby we're all born to die'
Distasteful, ugly and cheap
That is how you make me feel, I said
Capitalism stole my virginity
Capitalism stole, capitalism stole
Capitalism stole, yeah
We're all sluts, cheap products
In someone else's notebook
We're all sluts, cheap products
In someone else's notebook
We're all sluts, cheap products
In someone else's notebook
Distasteful, ugly and cheap
That is how you make me feel, I said
Capitalism stole my virginity
Capitalism stole, capitalism stole
Capitalism stole my virginity, oh
Capitalism stole, capitalism stole
Capitalism stole my virginity, oh, yeah
Capitalism stole, capitalism stole
Capitalism stole my virginity, oh
