

The Water's Edge (Stripped Version)

The Glass Child

Fallen by the water's edge can't get up on my knees
The rose of truth the thorns it grew our love far out at sea Throw me all your secrets and then turn them all on me This rain falls like a symphony the storm we grew to be I'm taking back my rights
I don't need your love to fly
I'll justify tonight
My heart beats like a tragedy
You left the pieces of me on the ground
then you turned around
I couldn't make a sound
And the dust of what's left of you and I echoes in my mind
tonight
You will hear me walking dead at night
turning out the lights
Can we make things right?
I'll be anything you want
I'll learn to love you secretly Show me where forever died take me back to that night Oh please just stay, I'll change my ways I'll swear to make things right
I think I built a home in you A place for me to stay I held too tight, I sacrificed to always take the blame
I'm taking back my rights
I don't need your love to fly
I'll justify tonight
My heart beats like a tragedy
You left the pieces of me on the ground
then you turned around
I couldn't make a sound

And the dust of what's left of you and I
echoes in my mind
tonight
You will hear me walking dead at night
turning out the lights
Can we make things right?
I'll be anything you want
I'll learn to love you secretly
They say that time will heal, but I can't seem to find the cure
You ask if I'm okay but I'm not welcome anymore We perished each alone the way the night turns into dawn and now I kneel in the night
You left the pieces of me on the ground,
Turn around
Make no sound
You and I
in my mind
every night
You won't return Die or learn Kill the hurt
In my mind
every night
lost the fight
Now I will love you secretly Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>