

It's Over (Unplugged)

Level 42

I won't be here when you come home
I'm sorry if you don't understand forgive me if you can
But I can see another road
And I ain't coming back Don't look for me you bound this town
Cause I will be so far away you'll never find me anywhere
And I won't take no souvenirs no perfume picture promises
Because it's over
And I ain't coming back You gave me everything
And now I'm breaking your heart
You know that I don't mean
To tear your world apart I would never leave, if I thought you couldn't stand the pain
A letter in hall, is written on the wall
A letter with the words of love at all
Because it's over
And I ain't coming back And as I close the door
I know I'm breaking your heart
I should have loved you more
Instead I've torn world apart And as I walk into the lonely afternoon
I feel sad enough, I feel bad enough
And all the times when you are lonely where you are Please don't hate me then, I just could not pretend Tears, feel the tears, I can feel the tears, running through the years

Songwriters

King, Pearl / Bartholomew, Dave Published by

Lyrics Â© Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC, Warner/Chappell Music, Inc., Barbara Orbison Music Company
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>