

My Brother, My Enemy

Lucky Dube

Your smiling cannot fool me no more
Your sweet talking cannot fool me no more
'Cause I know about your cheating
'Cause I know about you back biting And I don't know what you know
And I have never been where you've been
And I certainly don't believe in what you believe in
And I don't do what you do
I'm a living witness, now I know that Not every black man is my brother
Not every white man is my enemy
I've got no place in your world
And I've never been where you've been And I don't know what you know
And I have never been where you've been
And I certainly don't believe in what you believe in
And I don't do what you do
I'm a living witness, now I know that Not every black man is my brother
Not every white man is my enemy
I've got no place in your world
And I've never been where you've been Not every black man is my brother
Not every white man is my enemy
I've got no place in your world
And I've never been where you've been Not every black man is my brother
Not every white man is my enemy
I've got no place in your world
And I've never been where you've been
