Perfect

Darren Hayes

Your love is a sonnet written on an empty shore
Sealed into a bottle and lost at sea.
Your love is an army trying to apologize
Your love is a soldier tired of war.
And all it could have been is like a sailing boat in the sand
And all our wasted love is like a language I don't understand.
But our love was perfect.
Pieces of a puzzle lying on the floor.
Beginning and ending
A story that continues never, evermore.
Your love is a whisper trying to become a roar.
Your love is a child crying out for more.
And all it could have been is like a sailing boat in the sand
And all our wasted love is like a language I don't understand.
Cause our love was perfect.
Pieces of a puzzle lying on the floor.
Beginning and ending
A story that continues never, evermore.
Cause I felt it
It cut deep.
It left a scar in my memory.
But your love was burned into me.

You've been hiding away
You've been hiding away.
And all it could have been is like a sailing boat in the sand.
And all our wasted love is like a language I don't understand.
But our love was perfect.
Pieces of a puzzle lying on the floor.
Beginning and ending...
A story that continues never, evermore.
(Never, evermore.)
Cause our love was perfect.
Pieces of a puzzle lying on the floor.
Beginning and ending...
A story that continues never, evermore.
(Oh...)
Our love...
(You've been hiding away)

Perfect.
(You've been hiding away)
Our love...
(You've been hiding away)
Perfect.
(You've been hiding away)
Our love...
(You've been hiding away)
Perfect.
(You've been hiding away)
