

Vultures

Five Iron Frenzy

Watching Mrs. Brady prime the brand new Kenmore washer Beautiful the china, what a lovely cup and saucer see the brilliant gleam of the automatic tooth flosser Wave to the pretty ladies yeah I saw your Rolex, but I think its an impostor with your brand new hairpiece, baby Ahh, the smell of cash, its good to be alive Rip the tags off mattresses Im going to spend some dough like its 1985 youll buy more anyway Is the paint on that SUV some brand new type of gray? Believe in anything Vultures circling Chorus: Yeah. Open, swallow/ youre so hollow My teeth are getting yellow from the mocha I just drank I need to bleach them out, but my breath will still be rank Did you you see the new computers, And that shade of black you wear, arent they oh so obsolete? its so Tuesday of last week You need a better life I used to be an amateur but now Im going pro Have you tried another wife? The empire grows It once was Mile High but you sold it to Invesco beneath the golden arches you can see its massive span somewhere in Japan. And the vultures circle theyve paved the way to top floors in L.A.
Theyve bit and clawed their path And beneath the brazen windows you can hear the sound they say the word on the street is somethings going down?.. When the revolution comes.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>