

The Dawn's Request

Duncan Sheik

If I crack up
Lose my head
Try to hide beneath my bed
And leave the television on
So I don't think of what's gone wrong
I beg the dawn Break through, save me
Rescue me
Wake me from the dead
My weary head in your embrace If I spin out
And off the rails
Build myself a bed of nails
And take the whole world down with me
Into my dime-story tragedy
Where will you be? Break through, heal me
Sing to me
Kneel beside my bed
My weary head in your embrace Wake up, sunrise
I may be alone but I'm alive
And I will find a way to you Sunrise, you saved me this time
You never even had to try
And you opened up my eyes Sunrise, you treat me so kind
I will lost, I was blind
And you opened up my eyes
