What Would You Say

Robert Cray

What would you say, to people everywhere,
out in the street alone?
One of these days, you'll turn out the light,
in some place to call your own.What would you say, if we cured all disease?
I've got a right to dream.
One of these days and I hope it ain't long,
I know you'll all agree.What would you say ?
What would you say?
Can we do that?
What would you say?What would you say, if we quit waging war,
and children fell safe asleep?
One of these days we may all learn to talk,
over a table with something to eat.
What would you say?
What would you say?
Can we do that?
What would you say?
Can we do that?
I know we can!
What would you say?
What would you say?
