I Broke Right Down And Lied

Jess McEntire

I never thought Iâ€™d see this day and I never thought Iâ€™d hurt. But I stood there in front of her and got what I deserve She told me she was finally over me and asked if I was doing alright So I looked her in the eyes and broke right down and lied.

chorus
I broke right down and lied
Victim of my foolish pride
I hid the pain behind a smile
Lord I was dying all the while
These days I spend my nights in hell
But I told her that I was doing well
I stood there the master of disguise
When I broke right down and lied

Like a man without a concis Iâ€™m okay rolled off my tongue
For a second even I believed I was better off all alone
A part of me was wanting to give in and ask her to come back into my life.
But the truth welled up inside and I broke right down and lied
