

Only a Memory

Rachel White

Late September
A chill in the air.
I was hurt
But you didn't care.
Your words cut
Through me like a knife
Or maybe worse
Cause they came without a fight
Some nights I laid there wondering
Where we went wrong
What did I do
To lose a friendship so strong?
How could you just let me go?
Without one word, I was on my own
Lost and so confused
Because I always trusted you
Little by little I found my way
Into the light and out of that daze
I've been set free
Got all I need
Because now you're only a memory
Sometimes I think
About you and me
And I wonder where
We might be
If you hadn't changed
And just tossed me aside
No reason why
As you hid behind your lies
I thought you were everything
And the world was all wrong
Truth is, I'm better now
Now that you're gone
How could you just let me go?
Without one word, I was on my own
Lost and so confused
Because I always trusted you
Little by little I found my way
Into the light and out of that daze
I've been set free
Got all I need
Because now you're only a memory
Oh, sometimes things don't work out
Quite the way we planned
Someday you'll look back on this

And I hope you'll understand
How I felt when you let me go?

Without one word, I was on my own

Lost and so confused

Because I always trusted you

Little by little I found my way

Into the light and out of that daze

I've been set free

Got all I need

Because now you're only a memory

A memory

You're only a memory
