Always

Self Against City

Fell in love with a ghost, I'm ashamed
And torn apart at the seams under the weight
Of all the truth that a lie uncovers
And all the regret that comes from one mistake
Still you say you said, that nothing's changed for you
So tell me, tell me what you're trying to proveDon't say it's too late
Cause I need you to care, but youAlways place the blame on something you don't understand
You'll always be the same cause something's never changeBet my fate on a chance at glory
I pulled the handle with hopes that I could fill
All the voids that a broken past brings
And strip the focus that blinded you from me
Still you say you said, that nothing's changed for you
So tell me, tell me yeah, what you're trying to proveDon't say it's too late
Cause I need you to care, but youAlways place the blame on something you don't understand
You'll always be the same cause something's never change
Always place the blame on something you don't understand
You'll always be the same cause something's never changeThey never change, yeahAlways place the blame on something you don't understand
You'll always be the same cause something's never change
Always place the blame on something you don't understand
You'll always be the same cause something's never change

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/