

Song for the Journey

Tish Hinojosa

Here's a song for the journey
As we draw near the line
Though our eyes bear a tear
As we wave our goodbye
May the clouds part before you
May the stars kiss your eyes There are days made for wonder and laughter and wine
May your dreams take you places
Through rivers that wind
If we don't count our blessings
We're wasting our time Heaven knows where the road falls before me
May the angels hold those left behind
When I think of the treasures and pleasures we find
There are many and many were mine
When your heart it grows weary
And you can't face the night
I will give you my shoulder
For the weight on your mind
If we don't count our blessings
We're wasting our time
Here's a song for the journey tonight
