

Bitter Glass

Feeder

The thought of never knowing, could kill me just the same

The solitary blossom, the mind is of a friend
What are you saying, you've got nothing to live for
You're tired and broken, you just can't free yourself
And all the words we've spoken, are buried in the sand

The ruptured and the broken, that taste of bitter glass
What are you saying, you've got nothing to live for

You're tired and broken, you just can't free yourself

What are you saying, it's just a part of rejection

Pulling you deeper, you just can't free yourself
Your voluntary loving, apologies have passed and come around again

The fragments of a reason, the taste of bitter glass
So what are you saying, you've got nothing to live for

You're tired and broken, you just can't free yourself

What are you saying, it's just a part of rejection

Pulling you deeper, you just can't free yourself
