Rainy Taxi

Jon Saint James

You catch everything I never could
You believed when I gave up for good
And when you stand beside me,
I could tell I was stronger than I've ever been
But if you're gone, you know you don't come backI came home last night, I had no good news
I came home last night, I had no good news
And you've been sleeping through
The brightest flash of apocalyptic ruin
And if you leave, I'll never sing another tuneOh, put on your red shoes, sing your tuning of a girl
When you took my love, I forget the world
And if you say "run," I may run with you
I've got nothing else, I've got nowhere elseAs the sun goes fading in the west
There's an army east that's rising still
And when you stand beside me,
I feel something stronger than I ever could
But if you leave, you better run away for good
Leave, you better run away for good
Leave, you better run, run, run
Leave, you better run away for goodOoh, run, run, run away
Ooh, run, run, run, run, run

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/