

You're an Angel

Robbie Stewart

Oh, rewinding memories... to those childhood destinies
To a place where angels hide away
Ain't it funny how some things change like love lost in a game
Of hide and seek, kiss and tell in fairy tales

Oh, but I never knew that an angel would look like you
They'd taunt you and they'd tease you of your dreams just made for two
And left you out there wondering what to do

(Chorus):

But, you're Angel when the daylight's in your eyes
A lover in disguise when the stars come out at night
And when you get down on those rhythmic blues
And strip off your sailing shoes
Said, oh mamma, what's a poor boy to do?
Said, oh mamma, how come angels look like you?

(Second Verse):

So, rewind your memories... to those childhood fantasies
To a place where angels hide away
Ain't it funny how some things change like love lost in a game
Of hide and seek, kiss and tell in fairy tales

But, who ever knew that an angel would look like you
Oh, they taunt you and teased you of your dreams just made for two
Then left you out there to ponder your next move

(Repeat Chorus):

Said, oh mamma, what's a poor boy to do?
Said, oh mamma, how come angels look like you?
Said, oh mamma, what's a poor boy to do?
Said, oh mamma, when this poor boy looks at you

Lyrics submitted by Robbie Stewart.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>