Like Silver

Rocky Votolato

You're in the kitchen, I stare at our bed frame
I'm hearing your voice through the door
I will work my fingers to bones
To find us a way out of hereI buried my past down in Texas
Where I'm from, to live here with you tonight, I know the morning light
Will come like it always does to tear us apart
But I don't want to think about that right nowI just want to sit here and remember that little beach town
How the screen door reflected the water
And your eyes in the picture we took
It left me with scars that are there for goodWhen we hit the big time my darling I mean something
Like nothing the worlds ever seen, they'll put us on the silver screen
A silver lining with clouds that forgot how to rain
The day we finally escape is all I'm thinking about right now
