

Squander

Skunk Anansie

Why take everything you see?
You have nothing left to squander
If you keep pushing me away
You have no one left to love You throw it all away Those ties you went and suffered for you called disaster
squander squander squander squander Why take everything you see?
You have nothing left to squander
If you keep pushing me away
You have no one left to do love you're less than you should be what runs so hard to finish I you could contendement
squander squander squander squander Why take everything you see?
You have nothing left to squander
If you keep pushing me away
You have no one left to loooooove, loooooove Why squander squander squander squander Why take everything you see?
You have nothing left to squander
If you keep pushing me away
You have no one left to, no one left to love
