

You Took Advantage of Me

Rosemary Clooney, Nelson Riddle & Orchestra

Though our paths in life have parted
You no longer care for me
But when you're happy with another
Won't you sometimes think of me
When the evenin' sun is sinking
Down behind the trees
And the moon is slowly rising
Won't you sometimes think of me
I'll always keep your picture
It means so much to me
And every night I'll pray, dear
That you'll sometimes think of me
Think of days that are gone, dear
Days we could recall
If you would only try, dear
But still you blame me for all
When the evenin' sun is sinking
Down behind the trees
And the moon is slowly rising
Won't you sometimes think of me
All I can say's I tried, dear
But you wouldn't let it be
So if you're ever sad and lonely
Won't you sometimes think of me
When the evenin' sun is sinking
Down behind the trees
And the moon is slowly rising
Won't you sometimes think of me
