Giants Must Fall

You should know by now that the common thread is taut
I'd like to stay but you just won't listen
Disappointment I'd take though there's no point to it
I blew it
If you could think aloud, it won't mean anything will change
If you could think aloud, it won't mean anything will change
As tests go wrong and we deny it together
Or a second of thought might ache forever
I blew it
I blew it
I blew it
But did you ever go too far up against your own persuasion
Consummate madness then despise
You should have learnt by now that the common thread is taut
You should have learnt by now that the common thread is taut
It's hard to reflect when your world is sighing
You could never catch up and there's no use trying
I blew it
I blew it
I blew it
And if the gods were on your side I couldn't let you slide
And if the gods were on your side I couldn't let you slideYou blow it
You blew it
I blew it
