

Where Is the Love

Gentleman

We want freedom of speech
But we all talking at the same time
We say we want peace but nobody wants to change their own mind And it goes on and on and on
For a thousand year
And it goes on and on and on
What language are your tears Everybody wants to live the life of kings and queens
But nobody wants to stay and plow the fields
Everybody wants to tell thier neighbors how to live
But nobody wants to listen to how they feel And it goes on and on and on
For a thousand year
And it goes on and on and on
What language are your tears But what I got to say one more time is Love enough yeah, Love enough yeah, Love enough yeah
Or could you love some more
Is it Love enough yeah, Love enough yeah, Love enough yeah
Or could you love some more
Is it Love enough yeah, Love enough yeah, Love enough yeah
Or could you love some more
Is it Love enough yeah, Love enough yeah, Love enough yeah
Oh tell you could you love some more And it goes on and on and on
For a thousand year
And it goes on and on and on
What language are your tears What language are you tears
What language is your laughter
What language is your sadness
What language is your joy It goes on and on and on for a thousand years
And it goes on and on and on
What language are your tears

Songwriters

CAMPBELL, WARRYN/ANDREWS, MARK/DE GRATE, DONALD EARLE Published by Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC, Warner/Chappell Music, Inc., Universal Music Publishing Group
Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>