

A.P.B.

Mul-Ty

See, I know it's late
And I might be wrong
But I ain't call to speak to you, put her on the phone
See there's been a mistake, of identity
And you been holding something dear that belongs to me
She belongs to me
And honestly I been losing sleep since this crime occurred
So if you don't mind there's something I gotta say to her (hello)

You're in the wrong arms tonight
Feels like I'm in the fight of my life, but I'll risk it all
To let you know that
Your heart is in the wrong place
Somehow it just got misplaced, but I'll risk it all
To bring it back where it belongs

Your house is just a house cause right here is home
This is my desperate plea for me to right this wrong
There's been a robbery
In the first degree somebody call the cops, tell them put out an APB
she belongs to me
And honestly, I've been losing sleep since this crime occurred
Giving him the love that belongs to me
That just ain't gone work, no that just won't work

You're in the wrong arms tonight
Feels like I'm in the fight of my life, but I'll risk it all
To let you know that
Your heart is in the wrong place
Somehow it just got misplaced, but I'll risk it all
To bring it back where it belongs

I should have kept your heart in a safer place
But I let it slip away
I made mistakes
But right now I'm willing to risk it all
Can't let it be (can't let it be) be too late

You're in the wrong arms tonight (You're in the wrong arms, babe)
Feels like I'm in the fight of my life, but I'll risk it all (I'll risk it all)
To let you know that (Just to let you know that) Somehow along the way
Your heart had just got misplaced, but I'll risk it all
To bring it back

See I know it's late
And I might be wrong

Lyrics Submitted by Ramona Durr

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>