

I've Just Told Mama Goodbye (Show 4)

Hank Williams

Each year on mother's day
The rose I wore was red
But today I'm saying my first prayer
Mama's lying on her dying bed. I've just told mama good- bye
Mother's day has turned to night
Like the flowers in may, she withered away
And my red rose is turning white. This is the dreaded hour
We all must face someday
Yet there's consolation in my heart
She will bloom in the master's bouquet. Her time has come to go
And there's nothing I can do
Only hold her hand and say goodbye
Mama's day with her children is through.

Songwriters

KINSEY, CURLY / SWEET, SUNSHINE SLIM Published by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>