

Goodbye My Friend

Boney M.

Whirlwind, you must know he can't leave
Ever since he was young he had known
What a man should know
With no hatred inside Whirlwind take the wife and the child
Find the trail that leads south
To the lands they have given you
The new home for your tribe Brother of blood
I have heard that the soldiers are two moons away
They come with many guns
And death is waiting for a brave man such as you Goodbye my friend, you must be on your way
Down through the canyons, we wait and we pray
Goodbye my friend, you can linger no more
Gun smoke is rising so run to that war Beyond the hills the far horizon
In the purple evening sky
You'll find the Valley of Walhalla
There when you die Whirlwind take the wife and the child
Find the trail that leads south
To the lands they have given you
The new home for your tribe Brother of blood
I have heard that the soldiers are two moons away
They come with many guns
And death is waiting for a brave man such as you Goodbye my friend, you must be on your way
Down through the canyons, we wait and we pray
Goodbye my friend, you can linger no more
Gun smoke is rising so run to that war Beyond the hills the far horizon
In the purple evening sky
You'll find the Valley of Walhalla
There when you die Goodbye my friend, you must be on your way
Down through the canyons, we wait and we pray
Goodbye my friend, you can linger no more
Gun smoke is rising so run to that war Goodbye my friend, you must be on your way
Down through the canyons, we wait and we pray
