

Rejection Role

Soilwork

I'm the result of an ageless redemption
A body with a heartless convention
A face with a smile that's been shut down for years
Facing the facts of my generation 'cause
I'm a sinner, a winner, my blood is getting thinner
I might as well get another life 'cause I've been there
I know what's been said, I know what's been done
Don't you tell me I'm the only one, 'cause I will be there looking for something
Coming straight out of nothing, just killing time
Facing those walls so black, so vile
I really am waiting for nothing
Coming straight out of something, just killing time
Facing those walls so black, so vile Now put your trust in a solid machine
Filled with words that have never been seen
A plague to insatiable souls left to die
Charged with mankind's raw energy
I rumble, I stumble
My memory starts to crumble
I can't refuse what's haunting my dreams
Have I stumbled?
On my way to a created perfection
I penetrate the gates of rejection I will be there looking for something
Coming straight out of nothing, just killing time
Facing those walls so black, so vile
I really am waiting for nothing
Coming straight out of something, just killing time
Facing those walls so black, so vile There's no determination
Echoes of a failed gallery
There's yet extermination
Inside us all screaming I will be there looking for something
I really am waiting for nothing
Coming straight out of something, just killing time
Facing those walls so black, so vile
I will be there looking for something
(Something)
Coming straight out of nothing, just killing time
(Nothing)
Facing those walls so black, so vile

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlyrics.com/>