

Running Out

Vernon Garrett

Can you lie still without making a sound?

Pacified hell, just don't scratch the surface
Away, away, you're running out, you're running out

You're running out, you're running out
How long before you crack?

How long before you turn back?
She knows you too well, she'll watch your every move

Better to not know than to endure this silence
Always, always
How long before you crack?

How long before you turn back?
Your ground will fall from under your feet

Your sky will crumble in, you will be swallowed alive
You're running out, you're running out
How long before you crack?

How long before you turn back?

How long before you crack?

How long before you turn back?
You turn back

You turn back

You turn back
