

California Bound

Carolina Liar

You're miles away
You just can't relate
Are you what surrounds you? You feel alive
At least you think that life
Is something in you
What do we know? There's a southern bound train tomorrow
Takes us out of this dirty town
Chase the sun back to the West Coast
In eight hours, were California bound
Were California bound You got butterflies
Well so do I
Just pretend that they're not there We can only rely
On ourselves like every time
It's just a new plan
What do we know? There's a southern bound train tomorrow
Takes us out of this dirty town
Chase the sun back to the West Coast
In eight hours, were California bound
Were California bound
Were California bound You look so brave
With the sun in your face
Just gotta believe me
Why don't we go? There's a southern bound train tomorrow
Takes us out of this dirty town
Chase the sun back to the West Coast
In eight hours, oh Forget everything tomorrow
Well be on a brand new road
Chasing the sun back to the West Coast
In eight hours, were California bound
Were California bound
Were California bound
Were California bound

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>